SPONSORSHIP OPPORTUNITY : SAS International Education Initiatives in Emerging Markets

Dear Sir/Madam

In line with our vision to promote the actuarial profession and education in the ASEAN region, the Singapore Actuarial Society (SAS) International Committee has been organising actuarial training seminars in the emerging markets since 2015. The seminars were well received by the participants, with lots of engagement and requests for future training.

Looking into year 2020, the SAS International Committee is keen to continue the efforts to support the growth and awareness of actuarial education in the region through our overseas seminars. Our target is to organise three overseas training seminars in 2020, and we are delighted to announce that Myanmar and Cambodia seminars are in the pipeline.

We are very pleased to invite you to participate in our efforts as a sponsor. These overseas seminars offer an excellent opportunity to promote the brand name and presence of your organisation amongst senior industry leaders and insurance practitioners in the emerging markets.

Please review this prospectus, which outlines our past efforts in the region as well as the benefits that you can enjoy as our sponsor.

Your contribution will greatly support the development of the actuarial profession and education in the ASEAN region as well as getting publicity in different markets.

All interested parties are required to send the completed Application Form (enclosed below) to sasinternational@actuaries.org.sg by 15 April 2020. Sponsors are encouraged to respond early as application is confirmed on a first-come first-served basis.

For queries on the sponsorship, please contact Chua See Ju at sasinternational@actuaries.org.sg.

Thank you.

Sponsorship Amount and Benefits

The sponsorship amount is SGD 5,000 per sponsor.

As a sponsor, your company will enjoy the following benefits in all the overseas seminars held by the SAS International Committee during 2020:

1. Two (2) complimentary passes per seminar to join the seminars and the seminar networking sessions.
2. Recognition as a Sponsor on the presentation slides and course notes provided to participants.
3. Recognition as a Sponsor during the opening remarks and closing speech by the SAS representative.
4. Display for up to two (2) company banners at the seminars where permitted by the local organisers.
5. Display of company name/logo on the publicity materials of the seminars (e.g. brochures and SAS newsletter) where possible.

The SAS International Committee target to organise three overseas training seminars in 2020, with Myanmar and Cambodia seminars in the pipeline. In the event that the target could not be achieved in 2020 due to the COVID-19 situation or some other unforeseeable circumstances, the SAS intends to extend the benefits into next year such that the sponsors will be able to receive the above benefits from three overseas seminars.

Use of Sponsorship

The main use of the sponsorship is to pay for the travel costs, accommodation, meals and other fees (such as visa fees) incurred by the SAS speakers during the course of the seminars, as well as other costs of co-organising the seminars (such as networking sessions) as deemed fit by the SAS International Committee. Depending on the training programme which may vary by country, each seminar is expected to have between 4 to 8 speakers.

Sponsorship does not require nor guarantee a speaking opportunity at the seminars. SAS International Committee reserves all rights in selecting appropriate speakers based on the needs and contents of the seminars.
