IFRS 17 AND RBC – ARE SYNERGIES POSSIBLE?

09 SEPTEMBER 2021 FROM 12 NOON TO 1PM (SRI LANKAN TIME)

The introduction of both IFRS 17 and RBC in many parts of the world seem to have hit us with a double whammy. If both requirements are similar in nature, can we achieve synergy between the two? Can we harness one to implement the other? In this session, Elise will share succinctly on the key areas of synergy yet highlight the nuances and distinct features of both IFRS 17 and RBC. Some of the key implementation challenges will also be covered. At the end, Elise will share tips on how to get started on your IFRS 17 and RBC journey to make the transition easier.

ELISE CHEE

is an actuarial director with PwC Singapore. Her focus is to help insurers achieve financial resilience and create value through a wide range of audit and advisory work. In recent years, she has led numerous IFRS 17 and RBC engagements for large and small insurance clients across Southeast Asia.

She also has a heart for supporting regulators and was an expert adviser to the Myanmar government on insurance market liberalisation and regulatory issues. Elise is a Fellow of the US Society of Actuaries with over 19 years of experience across many senior roles in established entities such as the Zurich Group and AXA prior to her consulting journey with PwC.
